

Dear ESGE Member Society Secretary General

We are contacting you regarding an exciting opportunity for young endoscopists and fellows in training to be more closely involved in the ESGE and the society's activities.

The ESGE Young Endoscopists (EYE) Working Group is a structure within the ESGE dedicated to developing the next generation of GI Endoscopists and to make their voices heard. The primary aim of the EYE Working Group is to assist and support young endoscopists in making the society friendly and more attractive to young people. To this end the EYE group strives to:

- Set up a forum for open and lively discussion among peers
- Promote educational and mentoring activities within the field of endoscopy
- Develop exciting and interactive activities and scientific sessions during ESGE Days
- To initiate and encourage research among young endoscopists
- Advance ESGE social media presence aimed at young physicians
- To expand the ESGE through the member societies and local "young sections", creating a well-structured network of young people who are passionate about endoscopy.

This EYE Working Group keeps an "eye" on all ESGE activities to help increase the awareness of the needs of the future generation of endoscopists. The EYE Working Group is an integral part of the ESGE and EYE Working Group members actively participate in ESGE committee activities (e.g., education, quality, research, ESGE Days scientific committee) and other ESGE endeavours. Whilst giving important input, the EYE Working Group members also benefit from being part of ESGE at the start of their professional career.

We would be grateful if you could forward this call to your young promising colleagues or fellows.
